There are various spots available in Kenya that offers an amazing chance for bird watching. This is a great opportunity for bird lovers.

When we talk about bird safari tours in Kenya, Lake Nakuru National Park comes at top of the list. It is located in the Great Rift Valley that holds thousands of world famous flamingos and other types of birds. Usually, Flamingos are finicky birds. You can a huge number of these birds at Lake Nakuru when the alkaline waters are full of the blue-green algae or cyan bacteria which they feed on.

In other words, Lake Nakuru is a true paradise for bird watchers. You can watch a hoard of white pelicans with their huge yellow beaks land on water and wade out to shove stretching their wing to dry in the sun. During your bird safari, you can discover over 400 species of bird and enjoy guided bird walks. Apart from that, tourists can also watch bubblers, white-browed robin, ducks, graceful paradise flycatchers, prongo and the bulbul are just a name of a few.

Lake Nakuru is also an ornithologist's paradise, an exclusively rewarding game viewing site and a sanctuary for both black and white rhino. Its pink-frosted shores and sky-mirrored waters also yield some of the most evocatively beautiful photo-images in Africa.

Lake Naivasha is yet another destination for bird watchers. From fish eagles, wood peckers, ibises, storks pelicans, sparrows, bulbul, herons to much more- you will also have a great safari experience in this park. Lake Bogoria and Baringo are also included in this list.

All you just need is a local ornithologist who can guide you and take you to the best places to enjoy the plentiful wildlife and enjoy the opportunity of their vast knowledge. A professional tour company can arrange everything for you with all the conveniences.
